Since I am a paying subscriber to XM Sattellite Radio I feel that I should get what I pay for. I don't think that XM radio is limiting competition by offering instant traffic & weather updates considering that the only people that are able to get these updates are the people who are paying for them. If people choose to pay for XM Radio over free public radio then that's their right to do so; it's their money and they can do what they want with it. You can't limit XM Radio just because people prefer it over AM or FM. There's more variety and less commercials. If anything, XM Radio only gives public incentive to improve. That's what competition is all about. Instead of putting restraints on the competitor, step up to the competition.

Sincerely,
Heather Hawkins
